

We are conducting a study to understand why people say 'no' to a kidney transplant?

We are interested to hear more about you, your views, attitudes, and experiences that led to your decision not to have a kidney transplant.

Who can participate?

- We would like to hear from anyone who has decided they do not want a kidney transplant
- Adults aged over 18 years who have chosen not to have a kidney transplant

What does the study involve?

- Taking part in an individual interview which will take around 60 minutes, the interview can be carried out at your home, your local renal unit department or if you would prefer over the telephone or by video
- Sharing your experiences, views, and attitudes to help us understand why some people decline a kidney transplant

To find out more about this study please contact Emma Jones PhD student, Bangor University on the contact details below

☎ 07522627230

✉ mmj20cpp@bangor.ac.uk

Version 2 Date 06/05/2022 IRAS Number 313751

Study Title: Why do people say “no” to a kidney transplant? Understanding patient decision making and choice. A constructivist grounded theory study.